CONSTANTINOPLE ALREADY HELD BY ENTENTE TROOPS

Entente Forces There Said to be Sufficient--
The Turk, as Usual, Blames Armenia

London Times Suggests U. S., Protecting
Outrages, Should Aid in Prevention

(A. P. Special Cable) Parts, March 8--Constantinople, is occupied mostly by Allied troops, under the provisions of the armistice, it is pointed out by the Petit Parisien this morning, which says that city is the headquarters of the Entente.

One division and one brigade of French troops, or about 15,000 or 16,000 men.

In addition there are in Constantinople 15,000 Italian troops, 10,000 British troops, and there are other British forces in the region of the Straits. A British division is at the Dardanelles, and another at Sestos and Bursa, while the French have a division in Western Thrace, the news service says.

A TURK DENIAL. Constantinople, March 8--(By Associated Press)--The Turk, as usual, has been keeping public knowledge of any recent outrages in occupied Constantinople, the London Times says this morning:

DEATH IN MANY FORMS IN CHASE OF RUSS REFUGEES

Awful Trip of 800 Who Fled From Novorossiisk to Constantinople.

(A. P. Special Cable) Constantinople, March 8--Crashed by the ice at Novorossiisk, death pursued 800 refugees, who had fled from that city on board the steamer Nevado, at the approach of Russian Sevastopol, and assumed the dread forms of disease and shipwreck, cold and starvation. It was only after a long struggle with the elements that the French craft arrived here, with its cargo of emaciated and starved passengers.

Twenty hours after the Nevado had left port, a vessel which had arrived here with the American Red Cross to bring the refugees out of Southern Russia, was struck by a ship, and prevented it making hardy any harbor. The ship was short of gasoline, and in the middle of the storm it was found there was no food on board, and that the bunkers were empty. For 10 days the Nevado drifted helplessly, a mere derelict, in the middle of the Black Sea, while the hurricane raged.

Typhus appeared on board, and, failing facilities for fighting the scourge, the refugees saw the terrible forms of disease and shipwreck, cold and starvation. It was only after a long struggle with the elements that the French craft arrived here, with its cargo of emaciated and starved passengers.

Twenty hours after the Nevado had left port, a vessel which had arrived here with the American Red Cross to bring the refugees out of

FORM HUMAN BRIDGE FROM BURNING BUILDING ABOVE GROUND.

Creating a human bridge at a height of 100 feet from the ground was a case the test recently performed by English movie actors. It was a case of had to, for a fire broke out in the lower storeys of the building, which compelled the actors to go through one of their tricks of forming a human bridge, not for the movies this time, but for their own safety.

The test was successfully completed.
